

Riggwelter Open Shoot April 20th 2008

Right! "Have our first 3D shoot at the end of April when the woods are looking their best with the leaves just unfurling and there is a carpet of bluebells basking in the Spring sunshine!" Wrong. A grey dawning with a chilly easterly wind, the trees are still asleep and only a few foolish bluebells are poking their heads up. The deer are leaping around the course, probably trying to keep warm, and wondering what on earth all those strange "frozen" animals are doing on their land!

Thanks to all of you who came and helped to keep Trevor warm by cooking bacon butties all day!
